Saturday, June 5. 1703

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated June 9.

Zurich, May 26

THE Confederate Cantons are assembled at Baden; they have receiv'd Advice by an Expreſs, that the French have beſieg'd the Caſtle of Langenarchen ſituate on the Lake of Conſtance, and are battering it; as alſo that they have extorted great Contributions about Lindau; and deſign to make a Line of Communication through Switzerland from Baſil to St. Gall. Hereupon the Proteſtant Deputies expreſs'd a readineſs to take a vigorous Reſolution, to put a ſtop to what they eſteem ſo dangerous a Deſign; but the Catholick Deputies declar'd unanimouſly that they had no Inſtructions on that Affair, and that it could produce no ill Conſequence. The French will be allow'd to go through Switzerland, by 10 in a Company, arm'd with Swords and Piſtols, and likewiſe to paſs with Baggage-Waggon, to or from their Army. Letters from a certain Officer in the Service of France aſſure us, That the Malecontents of the Sevens are ſo numerous, and ſo well poſted about Alets, that the Maſhal de Montrevel dares not attack them.

From the Harlem Courant, dated June 9.

Baſil, May 27. Monſieur Wurtmuller is return'd from the Maſhal de Villars, and reports, that himſelf and his Retinue were well receiv'd by the Maſhal, and that he promis'd not to make any Attempt againſt Lindau; (of which Monſieur Wurtmuller is Governour,) and aſſur'd him, in the Name of the King his Maſter, that he would maintain Friendſhip with all the Cantons, and give free paſſage to all their Couriers; as alſo that he would undertake nothing againſt the Towns on the Lake of Conſtance.

Swabia, May 30. The French have put Garrifons into Rietlingen, Langenarchen, and Waſſerburg: They demanded Contributions of Bregentz, but were answer'd from the Cannon on the Ramparts: They have poſſeſs'd themſelves of Ravensburg and diſarm'd the Townſmen. 'Tis reported that 800 Bavarians going down the Danube on Floats were ſurpris'd by a Storm of Wind, and that 300 of them were drown'd.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated June 7.

Ratisbon, May 28. The Bavarian Commiſſary having ſent a Courier hither from Ulm, to ſignifie to our Magiſtrates that 5 French Battallions, making 2500 Men, having with them 647 Horſes, would come hither on the 31ſt; and that they ſhould furniſh them with 2884 pound weight of Meat, a proportionable quantity of Beer, for every Horſe 6 pound weight of Oats, 12 of Hay, 1500 Tent Stakes, 200 Poſts to tie Horſes to, and a certain quantity of Timber, the Miniſter of the Elector of Ments took occaſion to call the Deputies together in the Council Houſe, to enquire what was to be done in this Caſe; Who reſolv'd, That a Remonſtrance ſhould be made to the Bavarian Miniſter in the Name of the Empire, That ſeeing the Elector of Bavaria had aſſur'd the Diet, he would protect them from Foreign Force, they expected he would make good his Promiſe now that the French were drawing towards them. This Reſolution being communicated to the Miniſter of Bavaria, he return'd answer, That he had receiv'd no Information, otherwiſe than by the Magiſtrates of this City, of the approach of this Party of French; but that he was of opinion the Diet needed not apprehend any thing from them, being certain his Maſter would not be wanting to his Word on any account.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated June 9.

Ratisbon, May 31. The Count d'Arco the Bavarian General has written to Collonel Santini, who commands the Bavarians garrison'd here, That the Order ſent by the Elector of Bavaria's Commiſſary from Ulm to the Magiſtrates of this City, to furniſh the French that are coming down the Danube hither with Subſiſtence, is utterly repugnant to the Intentions of his Electoral Highneſs; But that the ſaid Commiſſary ſhould pay for what the City ſhould ſupply the French with. The ſaid Detachment arriv'd to day in ſeveral Veſſels, and is encamp'd on the other ſide of the Danube.

From the Harlem Courant, dated June 9.

Heylbrun, June 1. The Elector of Bavaria has order'd a Detachment of 12 or 13000 Men to attempt the Relief of Rottenburg; but the Beſiegers being reinforc'd with an Imperial Regiment of Dragoons of Caſtelli, and 5 Regiments of the Troops of the Circle of Franconia, together with a fine Train of Artillery, commanded by the Margrave of Bareith, 'tis hop'd the Enemy will not ſucceed in their Deſign. Other Advices will have it, that this Detachment of the Enemies will be ſtrengthen'd with more Forces and attack Paſſau, to open a way into the Emperor's Hereditary Countries; but General Stirum, who before the Departure of the above-mention'd 6 Regiments, was reckon'd to have a Body of 33000 Men, will no doubt give the Enemy a powerful Diverſion.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated June 9.

Nuremberg, June 1. The Elector of Bavaria has ſent 22 Troops of Horſe and Dragoons with 1200 Foot towards Amberg, to reinforce his Troops that were beaten at Rottenſee and retir'd to Amberg, which together make a Body of between 4 and 5000 Men, and yeſterday march'd to Rottenſee to proſecute their former Deſign of relieving Rottenburg. The Beſiegers having Intelligence of their March and their Numbers, in conſideration of the Enemies outnumbering them in Horſe, have thought fit to ſend away their Cannon; Mean time 900 Men, among them ſome Horſe of the Regiments of Caſtelli and Santen, are marching to ſtrengthen our Men, and enable them to make a ſtand againſt the Enemy. The Blockade of Rottenburg is continued, and to day or to morrow a Mine made by the Beſiegers will be ſprung. This Evening the Margrave of Bareith came hither, and we hear there are 6 or 7000 Men on their March to cover the Circle of Franconia from the Attempts of the Elector of Bavaria, and fruſtrate the Deſigns he has projected againſt Paſſau and Upper Auſtria. Orders are ſent to theſe Troops, which are already come to Nordlingen, and particularly to the Horſe, to haſten their March, that they may be here before the Bavarians undertake any thing; ſo that at preſent we are pretty well deliver'd deliver'd of our Fears, and continue firm to the Common Cause. A Regiment of Danish Horse is arriv'd within 5 Leagues of this City, but is to go on to joyn Count Schlick. The Army commanded by General Stirum, is augmented (by a Detachment from Prince Lewis of Baden,) to the same number of Men he had before he sent the abovementioned Troops this way. The French have taken Ravensburg a little Town in Upper Swabia, probably with Design the better to secure their Communication with Hunninghen through Switzerland. They have ravag'd all the Country thereabouts; which has occasion'd the Inhabitants to abandon the Villages and betake themselves to flight where-ever their Troops move.

From the Harlem Courant, dated June 9.

Nordlingen, June 2. 4000 French are march'd into Ulm, and are to be subsisted at the Charge of that City. The Elector of Bavaria has demanded of the Magistrates of that Place, 1. To put into the hands of his Commissaries all the Fire-Arms and Corn they have in their Magazines; And also to pay 100000 Rixdollars Contributions. 2. To disband what Troops of their own are garrison'd in the City. 3. That the City-Council be suppress'd. 4. That strict Search be made after those who had a Correspondence with Count Stirum, that they may be punish'd. 5. That the Citizens take an Oath not to speak ill of his Electoral Highness or his Adherents.

From the Camp at Buhl, June 1. On the 29th Ult. a Lunenburg Officer was sent Post to Aischaffenburg, to hasten the March of the Lunenburg Troops from thence; to the end the Imperial Troops may speedily march to joyn Count Stirum. To day 4 Swabian Regiments were order'd to march towards the Upper Palatinate. To day we heard great firing of Cannon from Strasburg, whence 'tis presum'd the Duke of Burgundy is arriv'd there. 8 Hussars who had deserted to the Enemy, being taken by one of our Parties, were yesterday hang'd up before our Camp.

Breda, June 6. Brigadier Elts and 4 other Officers of the 2 Battallions taken in Tongres, are set at Liberty for 6 Weeks on their Parole, and are gone through this Place to the Hague. They report that our Men are well us'd hitherto by the Enemy. We have Advice from Bergen op Zoom, that our Forces at Lillo are making Preparation to pass the Schelde there. We are well inform'd that the 460 Men of Portmore's Regiment that are Prisoners at Tournay, have enter'd into an Engagement among themselves, not to take Service in the Enemy's Troops, tho' large Offers of Money are daily made to them.

From the Camp at Thys, June 7. On the 4th a Regiment of Horse consisting of 2 Squadrons, march'd from hence towards Buhl on the Upper Rhine, being to joyn 6 Squadrons more and 5 Battallions, which with 15 Battallions there already will make 8 Squadrons and 20 Battallions. Yesterday being the day appointed by Her Majesty for a General Fast in England, for Imploring the Blessing of God on the Arms of the Allies, the same was strictly observ'd in the Camp by order of His Grace the Duke of Marlborough.

London, June 4. On Wednesday Dr. Sherrard one of the Commissioners of the Sick and Wounded, was elected by the Turkey Company to be their Consul at Smirna.

Letters that arriv'd to night from Holland say, That our Troops begin to move in Flanders, viz. 7000 Men are march'd through Sluys to Lapschuur within 2 Leagues of Damme, and a like Number from Sas Van Ghent to Assenede within 3 Leagues of Ghent. Baron Spar appearing before Santvliet to take a View of it, the Garrison believing he came to invest the place, set Fire to all the Houses without the Walls. The taking of Schansterney by the Muscovites is confirm'd. The Sevennois have gain'd a considerable Victory over the King's Troops. M. de Tallard has pass'd the Rhine into Alsace where the D. of Burgundy is arriv'd, and 'tis generally rumour'd will quickly besiege Landau. The Nurembergers expect to be besieg'd, the E. of Bavaria and the M. de Villars being in motion towards that City.

Basil, May 22. The Camisars are at present divided into 4 several Bodies, one of them lyes between Nimes and Sommieres, where they are Masters of the Field; another between Anduse and Nimes along the Gardon; the third hard by Alets; these last have entrench'd themselves in the Vineyards within a Quarter of a League of that Town, and on the 15th, 250 of them came up to the Walls, to invite the Inhabitants to hear a Sermon: The Marshal de Montrevel, then in Alets, hearing of it, order'd the Gates to be made fast, and retir'd into the Fort, apprehending least the Inhabitants should rise and joyn the Camisars, who were 1500 Men strong. The Marshal is since gone to Anduse, but 'tis question'd whether he will get thither without meeting some rub in his Way. The fourth Body of the Camisars is said to be in the Vivarez about Ambroise and des Vauts.

Zurich, May 29. The Sevennois have obtain'd another Victory over the King's Troops, in a Fight between Alets and Usez, in which they kill'd 800 of the Royalists with the loss of 200 of their own Party.
